A GREAT WEEK.

This has been a great week for Louisville; her wandering sons and daughters came from all parts of the United States to help her celebrate. It was truly a "home coming" week and all our people are better for it. There was hardly a family that did not have one or more guests, and the few who had none joined with their friends in extending the hand of welcome to the visitors. The Kentucky Irish American had its share of callers and was glad to make them feel at home. On Wednesday, the opening day of the festivities, the continuous rains interfered with the floral parade, but the streets were thronged nevertheless. Every feature of the week was admirably conceived and cleverly executed. The Kentucky Irish American congratulates the promoters of "home coming" and wishes we could make it an annual affair. To the visitors we say: Stay with us. It is a good old town to be in and it is growing all the time. If any of you remain in the city another week call and see us. You are all welcome.

WORD TO THE WISE.

Many society people have an idea that they are slumming or doing something very wicked when they visit a vaudeville theater or a park where a vaudeville performance is being given. They talk aloud, make sarcastic remarks about the performers, criticize the attire of their neighbors and often hum or sing songs that are being rendered on the stage. If they only knew how ridiculous they were making themselves, how lacking they were in good breeding, both men and women, one can not really say ladies and gentlemen, they would be more circumspect in their behavior.

IRISH LEGACY.

When men, rich in this world's goods die, they leave testaments bestowing their property on children and kindred who frequently quarrel over the division of the spoils. It remained for an Irishman and a patriot who believed in the brotherhood of the whole human race to write a will that none of us ought to quarrel over. On his death-bed Michael Davitt wrote:

"To all my friends I leave kind thoughts; to my enemies the fullest possible forgiveness, and to Ireland my undying prayer for her absolute freedom and independence, which it has been my life's ambition to obtain for her."

Only the real Irish can appreciate the legacy left them by Mr. Davitt; only they understand that good will to ward all surpasses the possession of diamonds and domains.

ROWDY TEBEAU.

The Board of Safety has done well to refuse to allow the police to enter Eclipse Park, and it is generally hoped the board will not suffer a change of mind in this matter. The disgraceful rowdiness exhibited last week has disgusted many patrons of the game, and as a result there has been a marked falling off in the size of the crowds that had been attending the games. Two players engaged in a rough and tumble fight after a swearing match, and Police Sergeant Doran undertook to escort both from the field. Rowdy Tebeau rushed frantically at Doran and the latter was forced to reach for his black-jack. He did not succeed in drawing the weapon, otherwise there might have been a new manager by this time. Tebeau was arrested, gave bond, visited the daily newspaper offices and roasted the police. He accused them of being dead heads and worse. There has rarely been a game since Tebeau came to Louisville as a manager that the police have not been called on to perform some duty at the park. Judge McCann would do well to put a good penalty on him for daring to interfere with an officer in the discharge of his duty.

CINCINNATI'S WATER FAMINE

Cincinnati is suffering from a well defined water famine, and while conditions are somewhat improved this week all the trouble has not been alleviated. Last week street-hawkers were carting water about the streets and compelling householders to pay for it at the rate of two cents per gallon. The supply was so scant that the street cars had to suspend operations for several days. The city was practically without fire protection. It is true that the fire cisterns were full, but these would not last long in case of fire. The Cincinnati papers unite in saying that the Water Bureau is incompetent and negligent, yet they caution patience on the part of the people. The citizens held indignation meetings and compelled the Board of Public Service to reconstruct the personnel of the Water Bureau. However, it will be months before an adequate water supply is at hand.

Such a condition of affairs is next to impossible in Louisville. Perhaps an earthquake would be the only thing to destroy the pipes or create a water famine. For years our citizens have been harping on the mud in the supply furnished by Louisville Water Company. This is being remedied as rapidly as possible. Sometimes the management of the Louisville Water Company has been charged with extravagance and simply because high prices were paid for the best results. No one has ever charged President Long or Mr. Hermany with either incompetency or neglect.

Our esteemed contemporary, the editor of the Irish Standard of Minneapolis, says truthfully: "Would that the thousands of young men and women who just now are leaving school and college to begin the real education of life could always retain the high ambitions and noble purposes which are the natural possession of youth. If youthful ideals were more cherished throughout life by mankind this old world of ours would be a better place to live in. Unfortunately, the real struggle of life too often destroys the ideals of the young graduate."

Owing to our limited space the Kentucky Irish American has been compelled to refrain from details regarding school, college and academy exercises this year. So many commencements are being held that it would not do to show favoritism by using too much concerning any one Catholic educational institution. Any allusion made must be made in general terms.

Correspondents who decline to send their names with communications to the Kentucky Irish American need not expect to see their letters in print. If an article is worth publishing the writer ought to sign his or her name.

The Associated Press is again circulating the rumor that the Pope intends leaving Rome for Gandolfo.

A prominent feature of the entertainment was the orchestral performance in which fourteen of the fair pupils took part.
